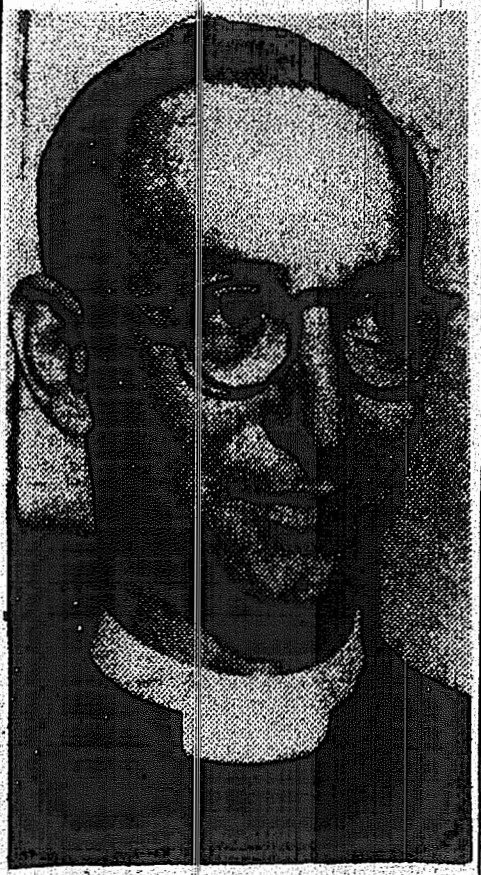
New Canon



REV. J. J. O'RILLION
Assumes post at St. Stephen's.

Canon Ready For New Job

The new canon of St. Stephen's Episcopal cathedral, Joseph J. O'Rillion, arrived in Portland Thursday after driving from New York via his home town of Houston, Tex., in his small French-made Renault car.

Canon O'Rillion, unmarried and 35, was appointed by Bishop Benjamin D. Dagwell. He will be in charge of the cathedral under Bishop Dagwell, who has been named dean of the cathedral to succeed the Very Rev. Charles M. Guilbert.

Dean Guilbert resigned from his post in May and was named director of religious education, director of promotion and editor of the "Pacific Churchman" for the diocese of California.

Canon O'Rillion was born in Houston in 1914 and graduated from the Austin, Tex., Presbyterian seminary in 1940. He traveled to England where he joined the 2d armored division as army chaplain.

Detroit Lands Check Arrives

$500,000 to Cover Needed Property

The United States government Thursday deposited a check for $500,000 in federal court to guarantee a future payment to owners and tenants of property comprising approximately 370 acres at Detroit dam site.

The government took immediate possession of the property, which is needed in connection with the dam being built on the Santiam river.

The check is believed to be the largest ever deposited in the court for such a project.

Linus L. Fuller, special assistant to the U. S. attorney general, who deposited the check, said while the government has acquired possession of the major part of the Detroit area, this does not mean that occupants of buildings must leave immediately.

Individual Suits Planned

The lands division of the government, Fuller said, will proceed with individual condemnation suits and these may not be completed for several years. About 110 property owners and 270 tenants in Detroit are affected.

Fuller said he understands the property to be condemned will be flooded eventually. In the meantime residents will be permitted to live in their dwellings and carry on their businesses.

The order of possession which became effective with the depositing of the $500,000 guarantee, gives the government the right to proceed with land clearing and other operations incidental to the construction of the dam project, Fuller said.
